

Ridango's mobile applications allow instant top-up and ticket purchase, providing also journey planning and real-time travel information for passengers

mobile ticketing

Mobile ticketing is the easiest way to enable the usage of mobile phones for ticket purchase and validation. Travelers do not need to carry cash, or even own a travel card – just bring your phone.

Ridango's mobile applications allow instant top-up and ticket purchase, providing also journey planning and real-time travel information for passengers.

Ridango has a variety of open API-s for supporting MaaS operators for integrating ticket information into their applications and enabling multi-solution services.

Such API-s allow the provision of integrated tickets, such as for concerts or sports events, bundled together with public transport travel rights.
